INDUSTRY 4.0 AND ENERGY EFFICIENCY

The Council has invited Mr Chua Kee Moh, a specialist on Automation and Process Control to deliver a talk entitled “Industry 4.0 and Energy Efficiency: Get the Low Hanging Fruits First” for its Timber Industry Talk programme.

Industry 4.0 and Energy Efficiency are popular topics among industry players. Full implementation of Industry 4.0 involves large investments. Fortunately, many aspects of Industry 4.0 are easy to achieve and the Return on Investment (ROI) is good. Similarly, many energy efficiency measures can generate immediate ROI.

This Talk is about getting these “low hanging fruits” which could be achieved by the industry (i.e., identifying processes which are easy to automate/integrate, implementing proper production monitoring and recording system). In the first part, the speaker talks about implementing some aspects of Industry 4.0 that could bring immediate benefits to the factory operations, at affordable cost. The speaker would then elaborate on energy optimisation and also highlight on some common mistakes made by factory operators in the timber industry.
