MALAYSIA-CHINA TRADE TALK

Representing MTC on the virtual dialogue was MTC Acting CEO Mr Wong Kah Cane who highlighted the Council's transformation plans which were in sync with the industry's needs. The speakers highlighted potential areas of collaboration for the timber industries of both countries.

Among the topics of discussion were the possibility of the US-China trade war being prolonged and how the 25% import tax, which is seen as a burden, can be alleviated if there were elements of cost-sharing.

The surge in demand for household and home décor products in some countries, namely the United States and Europe, are helping industries stay afloat and orders are expected to pick up further in the third and final quarter of the year.

KUALA LUMPUR (3 July 2020): As countries around the world reopen their economies after the Covid-19 lockdown, companies are not only operating more on e-platforms but are also transforming their business operations to stay viable.

The Covid-19 pandemic had compromised many sectors by disrupting supply chains, logistics, and other activities pertinent to production activities and the timber industry was not spared either which resulted in contraction in business.

In a move to enhance trade and exchange ideas on how to further develop the timber industry post-Covid-19, MTC held a meeting via Zoom with Mr Li Peixin, Marketing Director of the Shanghai Timber Trade Association and Mr Guo Liu, General Manager of the Strategic Development Department of Shanghai Furen Group, today.
